On the face of returns from approximately half of the 8,753 precincts in the state Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, was sweeping California in the primary for the control of the state's 26 delegates to the democratic convention.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning, with 4,058 precincts tabulated, the vote was: Smith, 69,910; Reed, 29,765; Walsh, 20,504.

These precincts represented every section of the state and showed Smith leading in every section. The lone exception was the large area of Los Angeles, which has been claimed as the stronghold of the Walsh-McAfee candidacy. Governor Smith was leading by a comfortable majority over both Senator Reed, of Missouri, and Senator Walsh, of Montana. It is considered almost certain that in this section Senator Walsh was running a poor third, in view of the strength believed to center around himself and McAfee. Governor Smith was beating the totals of the two senators combined.

In the northern section of the state, from San Francisco northward, a section claimed by the Smith managers, the New York governor was defeating the combined opposition by approximately 11 to 1.

Split Delegation Unlikely.

There are three sets of 30 delegates each in the field, each candidate having represented the full slate of 30 names. The six delegates on each ticket seeking election from the state at large but a half vote each, with the two delegates from each of the eleven districts having full votes. This fact made it possible for the delegation to be split. But informed political observers in all three camps declared that the possibility was very remote if not impossible that the winning candidate would control the total vote of the California delegation at the convention.

It was the first of May and the first day of the new fishing season, the vote, at first expected to be one of the heaviest ever cast in a California primary, was not done creditably. The election, considered an all-out race in all three headquarters, ended hand-in-hand on a heavy turn-out.

Democrats throughout the nation were watching the balloting eagerly, as they had the right to do, to see if top that the tie between Smith and his opponents was closely defined in California, and that the vote there would clearly show the trend of the public mind. The California delegation was also the first to test the strength of the democrats for public favor; all the other delegations so far selected having been chosen in state democratic committee meetings or by instruction for favorite sons.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover proposed for the state delegation to the republican convention, was receiving a fair vote, although it was not half so heavy as had been predicted.

Returns from 4,058 of the state's 8,753 precincts showed Governor Smith and 69,910 votes; Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, 29,765; and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, 20,504.

(Special Dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

New York, May 1.—A fine act of gallantry was recognized today when the North American Newspaper Alliance, of which The Constitution is the member in Atlanta, presented a check for $10,000 to the widow of Floyd Bennett, and a check for an equal amount to Bernat Balchen.

Balchen and Balchen were the pilots of The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance plane when it set out from Detroit to fly to Greenland, island, to give any assistance that might be required by the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, strand-date.

Floyd Bennett, as the world knows,

died of pneumonia at Quebec, Canadian, doing his best to save the life of his friend, the lost of his close friend and comrade, flew the Alliance plane on its hazardous course to Greenland, and brought the ocean airmen to

New York.

The presentation of the checks was made by David E. Smiley, general manager of the North American News- paper Alliance. He acted in behalf of the board of directors of the Alliance, who, meeting in New York, authorized him to make the adoption resolution expressing their sympathy with the report of the death of his famous friend.

Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commandant of Selfridge field, Michigan, has been mentioned as Lind-bergh's companion on the round-the-world flight that he would participate in.

Conversation Private.

Langhier, who left his squadron at Langhier, Mich., to spend the day with Lindbergh, said their conversation had been "private."

The various stories of the trans-

Atlantic flier's future adventures in the air, heard frequently since he returned to America, have not yet provided for his visit to nearly every corner of the globe nor already viewed from the cockpit of the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Ford Plane Denied.

Unusual was found, however, in the fact that the Ford Motor company would provide the plane, but this was denied today by William B.

Morgan, chief engineer of the plane.

Speaking of a trip over the Atlantic

he said that he had already expressed a wish to return to the same some time and complete the tour

before he made his New York-Paris flight.

Today, while the government arranged for an official welcome to the first fliers to cross the Atlantic from the east, Lindbergh conferred with Smithsonian institution officials regarding the disposition of his famous memorial airplane.

He decided after a conference with

Secretary Charles G. Abbot that he wanted the ship placed in the arts and industries building of the institution.

It will replace the Dr. Haviland, 4-seater, which will be housed in a hangar with the first Liberty engine, and will be under the same roof with the original

Langley aerodrome and the 1908

model airplane.

A platform was to be built to allow a good view of the ship, and to prevent mutilation by souvenir hunters.

Smithsonian officials said they would endeavor to provide a suitable permanent home for the plane.

The plane, which is to be housed in three pieces, under command of Captain J. Taylor

Branson, will make the trip.

May Day Celebrations
ONLY ONE RIOT OCCURS DURING LABOR FETES
Quiet Throughout World

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

European labor held its annual May day celebration without any disturbances of real importance such as have sometimes characterized these events in the past.

Only in Warsaw was there trouble that produced bloodshed. There three men were killed and 12 injured in a clash between socialists and communists.

Police everywhere were on guard to prevent untoward events and kept a close watch on the activities of the communist element from whom trouble was mostly feared.

Today's demonstration was, some said, the most striking evidence of the change that has been wrought in Mexican-American relations since the advent of Dwight W. Morrow, the American ambassador, and the non-stop flight of Colonel Charles Lindbergh from Washington to this capital.

Missing, too, were the anti-American speeches of former Labor Day programs in Mexico City. More than 600 labor day addresses were delivered in the city.

The parade, sponsored by the Mexican Confederation of Workers, was exceptionally orderly. President Calles and members of the Constitutional party marched in the procession.

Troquero, president of the Free State, was present.

Today's demonstration was reported as being the most peaceful in history.

Communists in Vienna made an abortive attempt to liberate Baba Kun, the Hungarian communist. The police were too strong for them and the ringleaders were arrested.

SPEAKER DECLARER SPANKING PASSE

Memphis, Tenn., May 1.—(P)—Spanking is passe.

That at least is the opinion of Herbert C. Parsons, of Boston, executive secretary of the Massachusetts commission on probation, who is here attending the twenty-second annual conference of the National Probation association.

"Fear will not make character in children," he says. "A child who has learned to be afraid of persons faces the world with a tragic handicap. I was never spanked in my life, nor were my children. I don't believe in it."

Parents who come into juvenile courts frequently should be punished instead of the children. They haven't been on their job as parents. For instance, parents who worry about their children being responsible to blame. Love of truth comes about naturally in children surrounded by adults who welcome their ideas. Talk to your child and get at his views and listen to his joys and sorrows.

In the case of two juvenile law violators, Mr. Parsons said that Massachusetts was the first state to pass a probation law. That was in 1878. There had not been an additional cell built in the state for five years, he said, thus proving, in his opinion, the value of probation.

The National Probation association's conference is preliminary to the annual meeting of the Chamber of commerce, which opens tomorrow night. Approximately 4,000 delegates from all parts of the nation and from foreign countries were expected to attend.

TEACHERS ADMIT SELLING LIQUOR; SEIZED AT BALL

Russellville, Ark., May 1.—(P)—Alleged decision of two Conway county school teachers to drink their beer, whiskey and liquor, piddling ended with their trial here today on charges of transporting and selling liquor. For the first offense the young men were fined $100 each and were bound over to the grand jury.

On sale of $500 bond they were lodged in the local jail.

For what they thought would be a profitable offset to their teaching income, Dallas Powers and Rocky de Salva decided upon bootlegging as a vacation sport. They had been drinking in the country rural schools, they told officers. At a dance at Russellville, three gallons were sold by the pair, the officers said, following which arrests were made.

NEW YORK MAN IS AGAIN NAMED BOYS' CLUB HEAD

C. T. Atkinson, 70-year-old executive secretary of the federation, of Toronto, also was reelected.

"We greatly appreciate the honor of the dinner given for us at the American club," it read. "Sorry we cannot be with you in person but are there in spirit."

NEAR EAST RELIEF IMPORTANT WORK OF PRESBYTERIANS

More than 100,000 children have received help and training from the Near East Relief and have been led to live of self-support and usefulness, but 32,131 children remain to be aided by a similar progress, R. E. Magill, chairman of the Southern Presbyterian committee on Near East relief, will tell the general assembly of the church.

The report cites a decreasing budget and reduced personnel and shows that there is a deficit of about $150,000.

The relief organization faces the task of raising a sufficient sum to complete the work and to do so quickly and inexpensively as possible.

Mr. Magill will ask the assembly to recommend that the question of Near East relief be taken to the churches and induce a plan to raise $6,000,000, the plan to assume support of one or two children, and the appointment by the moderator of a special committee to cooperate in the Near East relief plan.

FLOODS THREATEN NEW SATILLA SPAN

Waycross, Ga., May 1.—(Special) Tuesday found the state highway department fighting hard to save the approaches to the new bridge across the Satilla River at Atkinsboro on the Waycross-Brunswick highway. Thousands of workmen are on the job. The fill and a crew of men are being kept on duty night and day, mending breaks and watching for new breaks.

The flood waters in the Satilla are not expected to reach their crest until Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning and it is not known whether the work will prove successful.

The highway to Valdosta and the highway to Tifton remained closed Tuesday on account of high water in the Alapaha river and in the Willacoochee creek. Little damage, however, has been done on these roads, the impassability being due to water over the roadsides.

BRIDGE SMASHED NEAR VALDOSTA.

Valdosta, Ga., May 1.—(Special) The flood of the Withlacoochee yesterday smashed the Horns Ferry bridge on the road between Valdosta and Madison and the structure broke in the middle and floated away, it is reported.

At that point the flood is so wide that vertical navigation is impossible. The bridge was about 200 feet long, built flat and close to the water. It is very old and there is no surprise that it failed to stand the high water pressure.

It was feared for a time that should this bridge break and sweep down upon the Georgia and Florida railroad bridge below, the latter structure might be damaged. Reports made to the railroads office here, however, said that no damage had been done to the bridge.

DAM IS GONE NEAR AMERICUS.

Americus, Ga., May 1.—(Special) Water escaping through a weakened concrete dam washed away 15 feet of roadway and destroyed the Council Bluff dam on the Ocmulgee River today. As a result of the washout traffic over the roadway must be detoured during several weeks while the mill will also be out of operation. The damage to the property owned by J. W. Howell and operated by J. H. Arnett, is estimated at $1,000.

Wrong Jim Grant All But Given Death Sentence

Comedy and pathos Tuesday marked the imposition of a second death sentence on Jim Grant, convicted negro killer of an aged night watchman.

The wrong Jim Grant, a young white man held at the Tower on an auto theft charge, was first brought into Fulton superior court.

Young Grant was asked to return to jail where he heard of the contemplated death sentence.

Shortly later bailiffs returned with the negro, who frankly admitted to a part in the slaying of the elderly woman last May, telling the court he was innocent and would make restitution.

Judge G. S. Howard, apparently touched by the prisoner's statement, said a "higher court" would reward him for his truthfulness.

Grant was sentenced to die in the electric chair on May 18. Charlie Hicks, convicted with Grant in the murder, is being held pending an appeal to the supreme court, which recently overruled Grant's new trial.

J. W. STOKES TELLS OF CHAMBER WORK AT CIVITAN LUNCH

John W. Stokes, secretary of the southeastern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the Civitan club on the functions of the national chamber at its luncheon Tuesday at the Atlanta Athletic club. He was introduced by William Chandler, who was introduced by the chairman, Graham.

Miss Grace Lee Townsend sang two solos and J. T. Rose made a short talk. R. C. Broyles outlined plans for the "On to Detroit" movement for the Civitan convention this summer.

Order for Carload Package Salt Among Big Ship's First Mail

Inauguration of air mail service direct from Atlanta to New York, which started on its first flight Tuesday night, evidently is not to be "taken with a grain of salt" by officials of Rogers' operators of the big chain of Rogers' stores.

Neither was it the big corporation trying to "get fresh" with the new order of things, which means such a great improvement to Atlanta's air mail service, when the air mail car carried, among thousands of other pieces of mail, an order from the Rogers' stores to the International Salt company, of Scranton Pa., for a solid carton of package salt.

Another reason of salt was due to the fact that salt was due to be ordered from the big salt manufacturers, so Rogers' officials, through Broker Theo. W. Martin, decided to rush matters along a bit, giving the manufacturers an additional day or two on the order. Hence the air mail order.

REDS ROUTED IN FRANCE.

The second and final election in France Sunday showed a comfortable majority of at least 100 for the Poincare government in the chamber of deputies. This means a complete routing of the red element.

The results were anticipated by the returns from the first election on the Sunday preceding.

Four years ago the communists won nearly twenty seats on the first ballot. Sunday preceding the last on the first ballot, not one succeeded in getting elected.

The communists will win, perhaps, ten or a dozen seats on the second ballot of Sunday, when the counts are completed, but their number of twenty-nine and the noise they were able to make in the last chamber of deputies will very probably be largely diminished.

Both in the Paris suburbs and in the industrial districts in the north,
where they have their strongholds,
they failed to win clear majorities the first Sunday, although several of them headed the poll and seemed certain of election. The second election showed no modification.

In nearly three-fourths of the 612 constituencies a second ballot became necessary. This second ballot, judged by the first vote, it was thought would favor the radicals, who expected to win about twenty additional seats.

Even that, however, as explained by the Paris correspondent of the New York Times, was not made clear from the returns. On the contrary, a large majority of those elected by a clear majority belong to the nationalist party or the democratic union, which votes with the right.

Briand, Herriot and Bokanowski are among the ministers who won a clear majority and were declared elected. Minister of War Paul Painlevé failed to gain enough votes over his communist and radical opponents and had to submit to a second vote Sunday.

The party situation in France is complex, and difficult of comprehension. With coalitions the Poincare ministry will hold.

But at most the government is likely to be left in a sort of oil and water condition.

ATLANTA'S STRATEGIC PLACE.

The official opening of permanent air mail services between New York and Atlanta, and Atlanta and New Orleans, and the ceremonies attending the same marked also the formal opening of Atlanta's air port, which is destined to become one of the largest and most important in the country.

With the inauguration of the mail services to and from the east, and the southwest, came also the opening of bids for a Chicago-Atlanta air mail service, and the opening of a daily—except Saturday and Sunday—air passenger service between Atlanta and Chattanooga.

Shortly the air mail service between Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami will be resumed.

Night flying places the business interests of one part of the continent, at the close of a day's business, in direct contact with those of another part of the continent at the opening of business on the following morning.

The marvelous advantages of air passenger service in expediting business is illustrated by the initial trip of the passenger ship from Chattanooga to Atlanta Tuesday, when passengers left the former city after breakfast and were transacting business in Atlanta an hour later, or at the opening of the business offices for the day, returning to their homes in the early afternoon. The initial trip from the Chattanooga field to Candler field was made in 53 minutes.

That Atlanta will become one of the great air ports of America is obvious for the same reason that high, low jack and the game.

the city is the railroad hub and the great distributing center of the south.

It is situated in the strategic geographical position which enables travel, at any point of the compass, that may reach quickly, the major portion of America's population in from 12 to 30 hours by rail.

Merchandise can reach a majority of the consuming masses in this country more quickly from Atlanta than from any other point in the south.

People who have business in Washington or New York, or Chicago, or New Orleans, and cities of eastern Texas, can do so over a night's run, and with only a few hours additional to the most extreme points.

General Sherman, when he bent every effort to destroy Atlanta during the war between the states, was frank enough to state as his reason for Atlanta being his particular offensive that it held a geographical position that made it an exceptional distributing center, and thus a perpetual menace to the Union armies.

Atlanta has, in the years since its rehabilitation from war, gradually developed into one of the leading mail order centers of the south. It has developed into a great wholesale and retail center, with some of the finest department stores in the south. It has developed into a center for southern and southeastern representatives of practically all the great industrial and commercial businesses of this country. It has developed into a great insurance, banking and financial and educational center.

It has for years been the outstanding railroad center of the southeast and now it has sprung overnight into one of the outstanding air mail and commercial air transportation centers of the country.

Its geographical position is thus demonstrated as an incomparable asset.

OUR CONGRESSMAN.

The fifth district congressional committee will soon name the date of the primary for the nomination of a candidate for representative in the 71st congress. It has always been customary to hold the congressional primaries throughout the state on the same date as the state primary, and it is assumed the fifth district committee will so fix the date. The state primary has been fixed for September 12.

Representative Leslie J. Steele, of DeKalb county, is serving his first term in congress from this district.
He has made and is making a strong and serviceable member, and is justly entitled to renomination and election as a testimonial of the appreciation of the people of the district for his service as their representative.

He has voted safely and soundly on all measures—and he has been particularly alert to every interest of his district.

He has been tireless in his efforts for a larger and more adequate federal building for Atlanta, for the government recognition of Atlanta as an air port, for daily night-flying air mail services to and from Allanta, for the establishment of a federal memorial park in commemoration of the famous battles of Peachtree creek and of Atlanta, for several new postoffices in the district, and for readjustment of compensation for world war veterans.

Representative Steele is a graduate of Mercer, a lawyer of wide reputation, a former member of the Georgia assembly, and he has in every way proven his worthiness to represent the district.

No opposition has, as yet, developed, and he should have none.
He is entitled to be returned. His admirable record during his first justifies the expectation that he have no opposition for a second

TERM AUDITORS WELCOME.

Atlanta is host this week to several hundred accountants of railroads, representing practically every long and short line system in America. They assemble as delegates to the forty-seventh annual convention of the Railway Accounting Officers' association. The meetings are being held at the Biltmore hotel, and on the program are many social features, including a banquet
Wednesday evening and an old-fashioned southern barbecue at Stone Mountain Thursday afternoon.

The purpose of these annual gatherings are coordination and standardization of improved forms.

Atlanta extends a cordial welcome to the visitors. Citizens will cooperate in showing them the many attractions and points of interest, not the least of which at present is the great area of blooming dogwood in the Druid Hills section.

Spain is honoring a bull slayer with over 1,000 bovines to his credit. We would give him a few vivas if he would come over here after the June conventions.

This is "Mouth Health Week" and none are supposed to bite off more than they can chew.

The papers continue to call Mussolini the Duke but he seems to be high, low jack and the game.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Art and

The Masses.

We have an embassy in Paris where we had occasion to accompany a famous French musician to obtain some information of the state symphony of Moscow, the orchestra that plays without conductor, we heard that the miners organization in Russia had invited the famous studio of the Moscow Art theater to give a series of representations in the mining district. A contract for 25 performances of a new opera was signed. It gives the art and literature in Russia are more and more becoming the common treasure of the popular masses. The best orchestras and the most eminent theatrical companies of Moscow, St. Petersburg, Moscow clubs and even factories,
New Yorkers will recall the Art theater troupe's high standard and there may be even some who envy the popularity of the privilege of the troupe and of understanding the language of the people. The number of workers who have subscribed seats in the theater when the State Symphony is giving its programmes is 1,000,000.

There is an influential democratic leader in any southern state who has the independence and the right to raise a flag of revolt should Smith be elected. Smith's adherents have presented an ultimatum to the democrats of the nation, the clear-cut terms of which are:

"Nominate Smith as president, or we will support the other candidates."

The basis of the ultimatum is that Smith's adherents claim him to be the only man in the country who can possibly win the electoral votes of such states as New York, New Jersey, perhaps Connecticut, and maybe Illinois and other states where there is a democratic voter.

The conservative leaders, of whom I have made mention, admit that if Governor Smith can make good on that claim he would be the proper nominee—granting that the winning of the government is the sole consideration.

But no one can guarantee the capture of those necessary electoral votes,

Calculator Cannot Count.

Very seasons and expert political strategists have again raised the problem on the basis of the Smith claims, and are unable to collect 266 votes for him in the electoral college —and he must get that many to be elected by a one-vote margin.

Smith's adherents say that Davis got 1,000,000 votes in 1924, and then add 45
from New York, 14 from New Jersey, 7 from Connecticut, 29 from Illinois, and 13 from Wisconsin, making a total of 244 or 22 short of a bare majority.

Smith's adherents will meet with the Massachusetts democrats say that after the Smith nomination all other alleged issues will become mere rumors and that the election will be held in November.

Smith might also pick up three votes in Arizona, where there would be a bare majority.

Smith's adherents say that the Massachusetts democrats would be assured, and the Massachusetts democrats say that Smith is certain to carry both Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The report was brought here by Harry Johnson, who had previously been reported that the mine was in the possession of General Giron, one of Sandino's subordinates, who is holding the assistant manager of the mine, George F. Marshall, of New York, for ransom.

It is stated that Plata has 500 men with him and that he has now moved to Cass Vieja in the direction of Matagalpa.

Another report, wholly unconfirmed, said the head assistant manager of the North American newspaper had obtained from other sources, Sinclair will be questioned again Wednesday.

He said he had made other political contributions than those to Walsh, but "you can't buy politics for details," Senator Walsh, of Montana, asked.

"I don't know what party I belong to," Sinclair replied. "I can't give you any reason."

Except for the points referred to, he said he would attend to the question he was asked sharply. Sinclair continued to give replies which failed to satisfy Walsh.

"Let's not fume about the matter," Walsh said. Finally, after much "singing of poor memory," Sinclair admitted an incidental unqualified statement.

"I'm glad we've got that much," said Walsh sarcastically.

Sinclair admitted he never had given a receipt for the Continental bonds.

"Why was this unusual course taken?" Walsh asked.

"That was the way it was done," Sinclair replied. "I can't give you any reason."

1928 GRADY HOSPITAL COMMITTEE SUSTAINED

A Fulton superior court ruling Tuesday sustained the tenure of office of the 1928 Grady hospital executive committee, against which ousted proceedings were brought a month ago by the 1927 committee.

Holding that the 1927 hospitals and charities committee's council had no authority to appoint the 1927 executive committee for a five-year term, Judge E. D. Thomas sustained a decision in the quo warranto suit.

Plaintiffs' attorney said they will appeal the case. The action of the court, while declining to sanction legality of the 1927 committee's office, was construed as no ruling on the legality of the 1928 group to hold office.

In the opinion of Judge Thomas, the hospitals and charities committee of counsel is not authorized to appoint an executive committee to office without previous consent of city council or subsequent approval of the election.

The 1927 executive committee is headed by Dr. Marion Benson, while Dr. Joseph H. Hines is chairman of the committee appointed recently to succeed the 1926 group.

Quo warranto proceedings were brought by the firm of Branch & Howard and Attorney Paul S. Etheridge, while Horace Russell and James L. Key represented the respondents.

MISS NELLIE KENYON

BY NELLIE KENYON.

Of The Chattanooga News.

A record-breaking airplane flight was made from Chattanooga to Atlanta Tuesday morning—the trip requiring 57 minutes from the time the plane took off at Marr field, in Chattanooga, to the time it landed at Candler field. By the time it took the average Atlanta citizen living a few miles out to get up, eat breakfast, jump in his car and get to his office in the city, the Chattanooga ship had spanned the 110 miles (air distance) between the cities and the two passengers were on their way to the heart of Atlanta's business section.

The "Tsali," or Chickamauga, left Marr aviation field promptly at 8:15 o'clock and because of favorable winds the trip was made much faster than the 100 minutes anticipated. Exactly at 9:12 a. m. the maroon ship went thumping across the Atlanta field on its way to the hangar and in less than an hour's time the two passengers were off for Atlanta by automobile.

The flight was the initial trip of an intercity passenger line that has been opened between Chattanooga and Atlanta by the Tennessee Air Association, one of which, Benjamin King, is at the head, with headquarters in Chattanooga. Mr. King is a well-known promoter of aviation in Washington, D. C., and only recently has come south to establish southern headquarters.

Piloted by Fricks,

The Tsali was piloted by Eugene Fricks, who kept the 180-horse-power Wright "E-2" at approximately 4,000 feet above the Georgia hills and valleys all the way down. The passengers were two representatives of the press of Chattanooga, Mrs. Sue Loop, of the Chattanooga Times, and Miss Nellie Kenyon, of the Chattanooga News.

A favorable tail wind carried the plane along at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour, but not too fast for the passengers to get a glimpse of the towns and communities over which they passed.

The trip thoroughly demonstrated the future possibilities of air transportation between these two municipalities and the value of the plan as a time-saving proposition. Under present modes of transportation it requires from four and a half to five hours to travel between the two cities, making it difficult to make a round-trip to either point and accomplished anything in a day's time.

Leaving Marr field at 1:15 Tuesday morning, the passengers were given maps of the air course, which follows a straight line across country from the Tennessee city to the Gate City of the south. The Chattanooga station is located only a few minutes from the city center, distance of about ten minutes by automobile, making it easy for Atlanta passengers to get to Chattanooga without delay.

Weather Ideal.

Weather was ideal for the trip Friday, and with the exception of a few clouds at the start, the two communities during the first half of the flight the sky was clear. Looking downward from the side of the plane one could not help but think how truly obliging was that "Every cloud has a silver lining."

No one can fully appreciate all the scenic beauties of the section between Chattanooga and Atlanta until he has flown over it. There is so much to see that the passenger's constant attention is required every minute of the time. Especially is this true at this season of the year, with the hills and mountains covered with gorgeous shades of green, varying in dark and light.

When the Chickamauga landed at Candler field Pilot Fricks was greeted by Doug Davis, local pilot, and congratulated on the excellent time made in the trip.

The Chattanooga plane, with its two passengers and pilot started on its homeward trip promptly at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

It is hoped by those in charge of the trip that the passengers' constant attention is required every minute of the time. Especially is this true at this season of the year, with the hills and mountains covered with gorgeous shades of green, varying in dark and light.

Kemmerling, controller of the Southern railroads; Washington, president of the association, and Dr. Julius H. Parmelee, director of the bureau of railway economics, Washington. Dr. Parmelee will speak on "By-products of Railway Accountants," a report talk by R. B. Pegram, vice-president of the Atlanta railway, also will mark the first session of the convention.

Preliminary meetings by various committees of the association were held on Tuesday, with nearly 500 delegates already arrived for the occasion.

The highlight of the social events in connection with the convention is scheduled for tonight, when the amateur band and dance are to be held. A barbecue dinner this afternoon at Stone Mountain and informal golf matches will supplement the entertainment arrangements. The final session of the convention will be held Friday afternoon, when officers will be elected.

Alexander C. Nye, and Fred A. Barnes, of the bureau of accounts, and Dr. M. O. Lorenz and E. S. Hobbs, of the bureau of statistics, will represent the interstate commerce commission at the assembly.

Heading the committee on local arrangements is W. E. Vinson, of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, while practically all other roads operating in Atlanta have representatives on the committee.

A. & P. TO OPERATE MARKETS IN STORES

the Rev. J. F. Ford, of Lockhart, S. C., according to reports Tuesday. The revival series began Sunday and are being continued every night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

SALVATION ARMY ADDS NEW TRUCKS TO GATHER GIFTS

Entering a new field in order to broaden its service for patrons, the Atlantic & Pacific Tea company Tuesday day announced that it has purchased 12 markets operated in as many of its Atlanta stores by James C. Peavy, and henceforth will conduct them as part of the A. & P.'s organization with Mr. Peavy as manager. The original plan of the Tea Service center, it is announced by Staff Captain W. H. Range, commanding officer and general manager of the A. & P. company, with headquarters here. To Captain Range stated that many delays in responding to offers of material, made to telephone No. 2224, were due to breakdown suffered by the delivery truck, which the new equipment will enable the arm to send for material within 24 hours after a call is received.

The social service department, including the social home and shop for aged or disabled men, and second-hand stores for poor people who prefer to pay what they can afford for second-hand clothing and furniture rather than to beg or depend on outside charity, is supportively by contributions, clothing, furniture, rags, old books, magazines and newspapers which can be salvaged by the social service department.

Captain Range stated that the need for material during the fall and winter months, always heavier than can be supplied by contributions during those seasons, can be met next winter only by accumulation of surplus during the summer, when there is always available a large amount of material useless to its present owners and which has been thrown aside in closets, basements and attics.

SELECT SEVENTEEN ATHENS STUDENTS TO PHI KAPPA PHI

Athens, Ga., May 1.—(AP)—Seventeen seniors at the University of Georgia, seven men and ten women, have been elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society, membership in which is considered one of the highest honors at the university.

Mr. Peavy, who becomes manager of the A. & P. markets, is a native of Atlanta and has been connected with the meat business practically all his life, enjoying a wide circle of friends in Atlanta. Mr. Peavy stated Tuesday that under the new A. & P. management the Atlanta & Pacific Tea company will continue to maintain its policy of carrying in stock only the freshest and finest of meats. The meat markets under his direction will be open for public inspection Friday and Saturday, at which time patrons are invited to call and look over the establishments.

Daviscourt-Zickmund Match To Be Rough

Both Grapplers Are Fast and Plenty Rough; Zickmund Will Be Tough for Richard Here Friday.

One of Matchmaker John Contos' reasons for believing that there will be plenty of action in the Dick Daviscourt-Joe Zickmund match at the Atlanta theater Friday night is the fact that both of the rivals are mixers. In that connection Contos said:

"I was disappointed in the McDonald-Daviscourt scrap, because McDonald was too hesitant about mixing with Richard. There will be no such handicap Friday night. Both Daviscourt and Zickmund are mixers and they'll be after each other from start to finish."

Likes to Mix.

Zickmund likes to carry the fight to the other man, just as was demonstrated by his mixers here a week or so ago. Pete Rogers, Trist means that he'll be forcing the switch all of the way and Daviscourt will have no choice. He'll have to put out plenty of action.

Richard never has been open to charges of stalling or taking his time. In all of his Atlanta matches he has been right after his man from start to finish and in that way has always given the fans more than a thrill for the money.

Another reason for expecting fire-works in the Friday night encounter is the fact that both Daviscourt and Zickmund go in for rough and tumble stuff. Both have long ago won the reputation of being the roughest man in the game. He thinks nothing of kicking, biting, slapping or slugging his way to victory. Zickmund is just as quick tempered and it would be

The caption above is a bit misleading, for, as a matter of fact, the fair scholars at Woodberry Hall who participate in their strenuous athletics need no "daily dozen" to preserve beauty. The action shots above show some of the fair athletes competing in the annual field day at the school Tuesday. At the left is Ruth Mathis clearing the bar in the high jump. In the center at the top are (left to right) Emily Bush, Alice Backus and Lucile James topping the bar in a "huddle jump." In the lower center photo the start of the 100-yard dash is shown. The winners of first, second and third places, respectively, are Ruth Mathis, Eleanor Moffett and Alice Backus. The pretty young athlete at the right, caught by the camera in the act of flying, is Betty Bush, broad jumper de luxe.

KING OF SWAT PUTS 'BIG SIX' BOYS IN SHADE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The antics of Babe Ruth overshadowed all other events in the "Big Six" yesterday. Playing on Washington pitching, his favorite brand, so far this season, Ruth had his fifth home run garnished with a triple and two singles, and crossed the plate three times, much to the annoyance of Marberry and Van Alystyne. Ruth's efforts represented just about the winning margin for the Yankees in their 8-7 win.

A coincidence of the Big Six performances yesterday was that, each of the players, Ruth excepted, got one hit and no more. The averages of Paul Waner, Hornsby, and Cobb all fell off a few points, but their relative standing remained the same.

The standing to date is:

Player-Club. G. AB. R. H. Pet. P. Waner, Pil. 15 65 13 24 .364

Hornsby, Brvs. 12 47 16 16 .362

Cobb, Alfonso, 12 47 16 16 .353

Ruth, Yankees, 14 48 19 15 .313

Heilmann, Tig. 21 83 26 26 .241

Cuyler, Cubs, .20 75 6 14 .187

We refer not to matters of eugenics, however, but rather to a pair of fish stories we heard all in one day.

The first came from Squire Lorenzo Jones, assistant city advertising manager, and golfer de luxe, and concerns his experience with a member of the finny tribe at Black Rock Country Club Sunday.

He was playing with Richard Hanes, also of the advertising department, at the time, and knowing both of these gentlemen so well we basted to note that this is their story and they probably will stick to it.

They were playing the thirteenth hole when Dick's drive caromed across a little branch that backs up from the lake across that fairway. The caddy crossed the brook and stopped to marvel at something in the water. Richard immediately became incensed at the delay of the caddy and instructed him to go on. Whereupon the lad insisted that the shallow water of the creek was "full of fish longer than a man's arm."

The Messrs. Jones and Hanes paid little attention to the cries of the caddy until they approached the creek. Then they were convinced, if weather conditions are at all favorable.

Among the university teams that are expected to win is the Wilberforce quarter-mile quartet composed of Jackson, Nixon, Robinson and Southern. Georgia's Guards have some splendid sprinters this year and he is sending his fastest four to the Tuskegee relays.

New Orleans university has a very strong team in the half-mile relay, consisting of Griffith, Peeler, Hamilton, and Moore. The sprint medley team, composed of Carver, Chambers, Wadley and Moore, has been turning in good time.

Atlanta university is concentrating on the sprint relays of the quarter and half-mile. The baseball pitcher is very fast for the 210 yards and Coach Gunn has groomed Jones, Moon and Wiggins to make up the quarter-mile team. Atlanta university has also entered teams in the half-mile, one mile and sprint medley relays.

Fort Valley Normal and Industrial school should have a fast half-mile team. Collins, who won the 100-yard dash last year, is a good prospect.

Morehouse College has entered men in the one-mile, half-mile, one-and-a-half-mile, two-mile and four-mile relays. The Morehouse crack half-mile relay team that wo, the event last year along with the Chicago-Tuskegee club cup is expected to meet its greatest opposition in that event from Wilberforce University and the Alabama State school.

Tuskegee is going after all relays and special events with a vengeance. In the shot put, Tadlock, who won the even last year, is again available. Steward, who won second place in the javelin last year, throwing the spear over 160 feet will again be a competitor.

In the high jump Charles Maurasse, the Paris, France, youth, who clears the bar for more than 5 feet, will be in the pink of condition. Stevenson, Tuskegee's triple threat gridiron star, White, the C. C. C. coach; Thomas, Alba, Bramlett, W. Harris, and a host of others will be in the running. The Tuskegee team is directing its attention towards winning the Liberty Life insurance, Chicago, Ill., trophy.

Fish Story

Some sage has said that good things usually come in bunches. Perhaps he didn't use exactly those words, but the theme was the same. And it usually happens that good things, as well as troubles, do come in groups. So said the father of triplets.

We refer not to matters of eugenics, however, but rather to a pair of fish stories we heard all in one day.

Red Barron's Monroe Aggies made it two in a row over the Riverside nine Tuesday afternoon by taking the second game from the visiting outfit, 14 to 10, in a free-hitting contest.

Monday afternoon the Aggies turned back the Riverside team by the score of 21 to 0, completely outpacing the visiting gridironites.

For Barron, star athlete of the local school, hurled the Aggies to victory in the first game. He pitched a good game of ball and was never in trouble. Barron opposed him on the mound.

Morgan buried the Aggies today and managed to keep his hits fairly well scattered. Morris did the pitching for Riverside in this afternoon's game.

HOOPER ADDS ANOTHER BOUT TO HIS CARD

Two semi-windups instead of only one has been planned by Bill Hooper for his show at the Sunset Park Thursday evening in which he is featuring Cowboy Kid and Joe Dawson for the main attraction.

It is thought that all the local prep teams—Tech High, Boys' High, U. S. B., Marist, G. M. A. and Commercial will enter while Fulton, Decatur and Marietta will probably enter teams.

There will be two men allowed in the events where heats are necessary, the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles.

In the other events three men from each school will be allowed. These events are 440-yard dash, half-mile run, shot put, discus, javelin, broad and high jump, pole vault and one-mile run.

First place will count five points, second place three points, third place two points and fourth place one point.

W. A. Alexander, Al Doohan, Hal Barron, Tech track coach, and C. W. Stiles will act as officials.

Tech High, for the past 10 years has won the event but this season Boys' High school is very strong and most likely will take the title five times.

Billy is also planning to get five hard slugging negro boys to mix in a battle royal as the curtain raiser.

Jackets and Tennessee Vols Clash at Clay Field Today

Dick Florrid
Is Expected
To Face Vols

Clay Shakes Up Infield To Check Flow of Errors; Mizell on Third.

BY ROGER PAGE.

Having been treated rather roughly while visiting the Petrels Oglethorpe, the Vols irate the University of Tennessee to play with Coach Kid City's Yellow Jackets in the first of a two-game series. The game will get under way at 4 o'clock.

Followers of the Jackets who were disappointed at the showing of the Jackets in the series with the University of the South, Atlanta, the past week—can expect a different brand of baseball on the Jackets beginning today.

Infeld Shake-up.

The infield, which made enough errors to give the Tidemen the last game of the series last weekend, has been shifted around somewhat. Coach Chet Smith, in whose Mizell is hot corner, placing Frank Speer on the initial sack again, Mizell has been holding first most of the season; "Red" Terrell, who is a second baseman by nature, has been given this post again instead of the Yellow Jackets second.

C. C. Hill, another good fielder, who was on the squad last year, has been given a try on the third sack, also. Hill is a fair hitter, and will probably see action against the Vols either this afternoon or in the second game.

The Jackets squad has been put through a good deal of batting practice this week, and an improvement should be noted in the batsmen's work. In a practice game Tuesday afternoon with the Atlanta Joint Terminal, the new infield was tried out, and it worked fine. Mizell was grabbing them up like a veteran. Frank Speer was given his huge frame around in time fashion also. The first game with the Tennesseeans will be a real test for this newly formed infield of the Jackets this afternoon.

Jimmy Stevens, one of the best defense men, is still out of the game with a split finger he received in the last Alabama game. Mc-

NUMBER FIVE FOR BABE

Washington, May 1.—(UPI)—Babe Ruth hit his fifth home run of the season in the first inning of today's game between the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators. Fred Marston was pitching for Washington.

With two down and the bases empty, Ruth hit the ball into the centerfield bleachers.

Four of Ruth's 1928 home runs have been off Washington pitchers.

Neely has been carrying on the work behind the plate in good fashion. Stevens will hardly be able to participate in the Tennessee series, but is expected to return to the line-up for the Vandy games, Friday and Saturday.

Dick Florrid will very likely hurl for the Jackets this afternoon. Florrid has pitched good ball this season, and is held in high regard in the conference who cannot be rated well in a hole. Dick is also an unusual pitcher for a pitcher.

Although the Tennessee nine is not considered as a conference contender, the loss of some of these men will be felt heavily against the Tech aggregation. The University of Georgia is at the present leading the field with the Yellow Jackets second.

Tubby Walton will umpire.

PETRELS SWAMP VOLTS IN FINAL, 21-8.

Oglethorpe's Petrels made it two in a row over the University of Tennessee yesterday, defeating the invading team by 13 runs. Hill did not permit a safety.

Hammering McPherson and Koella for a total of 16 safe blows, the Birds simply ran wild in the second game. They started scoring five runs in the first inning and added three more in the third while the Vols were held scoreless. The Birds scored again in the fourth when three runs were pushed over the plate. This continued until the eighth when the Birds ran in nine counters and called it a day.

The Vols scored one run in the fourth and had the Petrels on the run when they staged a rally in their half of the eighth inning and scored seven runs.

Moore, Hesley, double play, send to Kelly; left on bases, Boston 2, Philadelphia 8; base on balls, off Smith 21; struck out, by Smith 22. Innings 8: Smith, single off Miller 2 in 2 innings; hit by pitcher, by Smith (Sand); losing pitcher, Walsh. Umpires, Pittman, Stark and Quisenberry.

With two down and the ball into the centerfield bleachers.

Four of Ruth's 1928 home runs have been off Washington pitchers.

Neely has been carrying on the work behind the plate in good fashion. Stevens will hardly be able to participate in the Tennessee series, but is expected to return to the line-up for the Vandy games, Friday and Saturday.

Dick Florrid will very likely hurl for the Jackets this afternoon. Florrid has pitched good ball this season, and is held in high regard in the conference who cannot be rated well in a hole. Dick is also an unusual pitcher for a pitcher.

Although the Tennessee nine is not considered as a conference contender, the loss of some of these men will be felt heavily against the Tech aggregation. The University of Georgia is at the present leading the field with the Yellow Jackets second.

PETRELS SWAMP VOLTS IN FINAL, 21-8.

Oglethorpe's Petrels made it two in a row over the University of Tennessee yesterday, defeating the invading team by 13 runs. Hill did not permit a safety.

Hammering McPherson and Koella for a total of 16 safe blows, the Birds simply ran wild in the second game. They started scoring five runs in the first inning and added three more in the third while the Vols were held scoreless. The Birds scored again in the fourth when three runs were pushed over the plate. This continued until the eighth when the Birds ran in nine counters and called it a day.

The Vols scored one run in the fourth and had the Petrels on the run when they staged a rally in their half of the eighth inning and scored seven runs.

BUCKS WIN, 4-1.

Pittsburgh, May 1.—Carmen Hill gave the Chicago Bucks only four hits and the team won 4-1. The Cub's only rally came in the ninth when the Cardinals' John Morris hit a two-out, two-base hit.

In a previous game Tuesday afternoon, in the Atlanta Joint Terminal, the new infield was tried out, and it worked fine. Mizell was grabbing them up like a veteran. Frank Speer was given his huge frame around in time fashion also. The first game with the Tennesseeans will be a real test for this newly formed infield of the Jackets this afternoon.

Jimmy Stevens, one of the best defense men, is still out of the game with a split finger he received in the last Alabama game. Mc-

Jack Sharkey Challenges Dempsey To Return Fight

Sailor Says He Will Meet Risko Also

Dempsey Declares If He Fights Again He Wants Real Tough Foe.

By FRANK GETTY.

New York, May 1.—(United News)—Gene Tunney has been invited for a second heavyweight fight in 1928, one which may eclipse in interest the engagement between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney in July.

Jack Sharkey has challenged Jack Dempsey to return match and has agreed to a disease of Johnnie Risko in the meantime.

There is even the possibility that Tex Rickard will rescind his decision to have but one heavyweight champion in the year, in view of the spectacular ascendancy of Sharkey to theistic heights from which he was toppled so ignominiously last summer.

May Meet Ex-Gob.

Gene Tunney, his fistic appetite unquenched by the Heeney affair, may continue to make another million or so against Tex Rickard's top competitor.

This, and more, has been the aftermath of the swift crushing of Jack Delaney by the transformed Lithuanian before a transfixed multitude in Madison Square Garden Monday night.

"I am Dempsey and let me fight the way I want to and I'll show them what I can do," said the Bostonian after the battle.

Dempsey says: "No, if I'm going to fight again I want to meet the toughest man there is."

This was said some time before the reformation of Sharkey, and it is now by means certain that the Boston heavyweight is not the "toughest man there is."

SHARKEY'S K. O. VICTORY TO BE INVESTIGATED.

New York, May 1.—(United News)—A thorough investigation of the Jack Sharkey-Jack Delaney fight was ordered yesterday by Chairman James A. Farley of the New York State Athletic association.

Sharkey knocked out Delaney in 1 minute and 13 seconds, but there was no evidence of "crooked work" in the ring, the two men with which Sharkey hit Delaney were viciously dive-bombed.

Prior to the bout, the odds jumped from 2 to 1 to 3 1/2 to 1 on Sharkey within 30 minutes.

The following statement was issued today:

"All I know in that I hear rumors and I instructed Lou Magnois (the referee) to tell both men what I had heard. I told him to tell them that if

HOW HARD CAN TUNNEY HIT?

"What is the use of your writing that Gene Tunney is a good puncher," pens L. M. D., "when you know he can't hit a lick?"

Jack Dempsey is among those who will disagree with this last statement.

Tunney isn't a slugger or a slashing biter, but he can jolt and jar and cut. He knows the fundamentals of hitting, but his entire existence is too much upon the conservative side to start him lashing out with a knockout wallop. When he punches he is still in position to block.

Tunney might be a knockout puncher, but he might also be knocked out himself in taking the gamble.

For the same reason he has a short knock out Dempsey in the fourth swing in golf, little more than a half-swing at Chicago, when Dempsey was with the crowd looking on.

It is figuring more on direction than distance, although he can hit a golf ball far enough. In fact, a surprising distance, with his short swing.

There is nothing dashing, slashing, or smashing in Tunney's make-up. He merely wants results in the surest way.

Jim Corbett has had a great chance to feint, uppercut and out himself in taking the gamble.

Tunney's normal punching range is only about fourteen or fifteen inches, but he can hit his shoulder back of the blow. It isn't a spectacular wallop, and it isn't a killing one. But it is accurate, easy to control, and enough of them will do the job.

The Perfect Career.

(Replying to verses of a writer in which he prefers the lot of a bush league hard to the transitory fame of a day.)

This is the greatest good one could desire:

To punch like Jack Dempsey and play on a lyre!

To be the world's champion just for a day.

Then lose with your laurels and laurel away!

Best it away to a wilderness nook And write enough verses to fill up a book.

Then give it away, if nobody will buy.

And so have the essence of bliss ere you die!

EARL BROWN.

It has been suggested that the best way to a full action, had a little blood and pleased the few cash customers assembled.

And will pick up the pen of the champion hard.

When somebody punches him just too hard!

Great Catchers.

It has been suggested that the names of certain catchers might be mentioned to match the pitching honors of Young, Mathewson, Johnson and others. Who were the greatest?

Every oldtimer says Buck Ewing stood, and he drew his hat off Mr. Clegg's left ear. Carver himself had a few good looks, but they were few and far between.

In the opening affair Battling Maddox and Morris Warsaw fought a draw.

It hasn't shewed up to the usual standard of Mr. Mayson, who has just about revived boxing in Atlanta.

Mr. Mayson is planning a useful Tilley for the Clegg on May 15, against either Stiles Attaway—15, or Mr. Clegg, who rode up with Cy Young to fame. Young and Clegg formed one of the great batteries from the start of the game.

Two of the greatest were Johnny Egan, the Corky, Roger Bernier and Zeller, who came home when Jim Poole doubled to the same place.

After that, the local nine subsided a bit and went out in regular order for the two innings.

It will be noted that Blair singled through second, went down to third on Klinger's single to right and scored on a double to left by Oliver.

He thought there was anything wrong he would throw them out of the ring.

Stories emanating from Bridgeport, Conn., during home tour, state that Delaney did not train for the Sharkey bout and that he entered the ring out of condition.

Have you tried this wonderful loaf of richer bread?

SO MANY people are changing to Southern Bread! Even those who have been most insistent on making their own at home. For they find Southern Bread so tender and delicious, so fresh and so rich—so exactly what they and their children want in bread, that the trouble and cost and risk of home baking seem no longer worth while.

Southern Bread is made with the ingredients you yourself would buy. You can buy them at your grocer's—the same shortening, the same yeast, the same beautifully white flour. But probably even you are not in the habit of lavishing so much milk on your bread as goes into Southern Bread. That is what makes it so rich.

Your grocer receives a fresh supply twice every day. Try this bread that everybody likes.

'Educate Higher Faculties And Forces,' Says Gov. Hardman

BY BESSIE S. STAFFORD, State Editor.

Declaring that women's conventions are good for the refreshing of spiritual welfare and reinforcement to the physical reserves, on which depend forward upward and unceasing nation-wide progress, and for perpetuating creeds and that the education of the higher faculties and forces in the individual brings the greatest return to community and state, his excellency Governor Hardman, chief executive of Georgia, addressed the First Baptist church in Decatur this week.

The Decatur Woman's club entertained at a buffet supper Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. A color motif of green and white, the federation colors, was effectively carried out in the beautiful decorations of the auditorium, a profusion of spires, nautilus, and blue and white draped shades. Marigolds and lilies were arranged on the mantels, bookcases and tables in bowls and vases. Hamilton, Bruce Hall, C. E. Patillo, E. B. Branch, Neal Hartley and the young matrons, who are members of the Decatur Woman's club.

Brilliant Representatives.

Two brilliant and prominent representatives of the general federation, Mrs. John Stippl, Baltimore, past president Maryland; Mrs. Gillette, director and chairman of finance in the national organization, and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., recording secretary, followed Governor Hardman, who spoke upon "Highlights of the General Federation," the message beginning with a story of the earliest clubs in the 1830's up to the present, bringing in the organization of the Sorosis in 1889, when it invited all the clubs in the country to meet with it, and how the general federation was started the following year. It was a small club in the way, but a fighter vein and touched on the splendid leaders of the past and the responsibilities of those of the present day. "Just Suppose," the subject chosen by Mrs. Poole, brought forward many splendid places of club life.

State President Responds.

Mr. A. P. Brantley, of Blackshear, president of Georgia federation, gave a response to greetings from Honorable J. Scott Candler, mayor of Decatur, and on behalf of the federation said:

"I want to acknowledge with earnest appreciation the golden work of welcome extended us this evening. Your beautiful addresses have voiced eloquently a very high appreciation of the ideals and service of the federation. In the name of club achievement we come in your midst, and rejoice in your splendid hospitality of understanding sympathy and cooperation. Your organizations of such fine efficiency and lofty spirit break a royal road to kindred minds."

As president of three hundred clubs, of some 30,000 women, intent on the world's betterment spiritually, physically, politically, in home, in community, in education, in industry and in the arts, we are here to help you. I thank you to you for your thanks for this happy and inspiring environment.

"As one born among you, I come with a sense of al-oneness, for all the things that I feel are mine with you, and my love for dear old DeKalb has never lessened. I have shared your joys and hopes and ambitions. It is with great joy that I come back to the county of my birth and find it enriched through the years. I feel that it is indeed the flowering of noble lives that has made this beloved county so richly blessed in the higher things of life. May I not therefore voice my gratification as one who is in the company of friends tonight. From my heart of hearts I join with all these splendid women of Georgia federation in wishing for our hostesses more and more abundant success in all their undertakings, and an ever deepening understanding and joy in the glorious life of service."

Acting as pages to Mrs. Brantley during the convention is the distinguished Mrs. Gillette, the president of the Georgia federation.

Mrs. A. P. Brantley and Mrs. Kate Green Hess, fifth district president, presided over Wednesday morning session in the auditorium, the barbecue given at Stone Mountain at 1 o'clock by the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, honored officers, delegates, visiting clubwomen and special guests. The singing of the state song was the highlight of the session, to be followed by a program to be presented by Mrs. Henry L. Hodgeson, state chairman of music and the following convention committee will give reports at the morning session:

BILL TO AMEND
FEDERAL RESERVE
ACT PASSES SENATE

Washington, May 1.—(AP)—The senate today passed the house bill to amend the federal reserve act by allowing the secretary of the treasury at his option to designate state banks as depositories for the members of the federal reserve system as depositories for public money. The measure now goes to President Coolidge.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

OLD MR. TOAD DIGS IN.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Discretion is the wisest plan for food, or animal, or man.

—Old Mother Nature.

Old Mr. Toad was of two minds, as the saying is. He wanted to go on to the Smiling Pool. My goodness, how he did want to go on! But it seemed to him that he just must go on. But he had a feeling that Mr. Blacksnake was somewhere around, and so Old Mr. Toad was wiser not to go on. Far away across the Green Meadows, Peter Rabbit's white tail was just a twinkling spot as it bobbed along. Peter was going right where he should have been going before. Peter was going to his home in the deep Old Woods.

It would have been very nice for Old Mr. Toad if Peter could have gone the rest of the way with him to the Smiling Pool. But Old Man Coyote had spoiled that plan and now Old Mr. Toad had no one to depend on but himself.

He signed heavily. Yes, sir, Old Mr. Toad sighed heavily. "I'm so low down that I can't see any more than my own length, unless I'm looking down hill. Of course, it is foolish to wish. There is nothing more foolish than all the Great World than to wish. I am not the sort of fellow who wishes."

A Merry Little Breeze came along just in time to overhear that. "Then, you would have to run from Old Man Coyote, just as Peter is running now," said the Merry Little Breeze.

"Well, then, I wish I had a pair of wings long-enough to drop me into that Smiling Pool," sighed Old Mr. Toad.

"And perhaps have Sharpshin the Hawk pick you right out of the air before you got there," suggested the Merry Little Breeze.

"Well, then, I wish I were in the Smiling Pool this minute. But as long as I'm not, I'm going to dig in."

"Digging is in a queer way to get down in the Smiling Pool," said the Merry Little Breeze.

"It's the same old way," replied Old Mr. Toad, and began to dig with his hind feet. You see, right there happened to be a sandy place where there was no grass.

"I wish you would explain to me," said the Merry Little Breeze, "how

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

MAY DAYS.

It is May day. We are the children of long, long ago, of prehistoric and primitive tribes.

Food is scarce, and the struggle for existence is terrible and constant. We being the weakest, are sacrificed. Abortion, cannibalism, drowning and abandonment to the elements, weed us out.

Those of us who belong to certain tribes and are destined to live, are maintained by hawks, eagles, bears, and various birds of prey. Our skulls and limbs are born on unlucky days, or if we are twins, or even if we sneeze directly after birth, we are slaughtered for we are considered unnatural and useless.

If we happen to be girls our fate is worse than if we are boys, for the male element is glorified, and only a few of the girls are allowed to live to become mothers so the race will not die out.

May day may be our death day.

It is May day. We are the children of the middle ages.

The French Alliance meets Thursday afternoon, May 3, at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. James E. Hickey, on Wesley avenue. The members of the Alliance will find the house about the north side of Wesley avenue about two blocks off Peachtree street.

Charles Loridan, president, will preside and give a report of the French Alliance convention held recently in Memphis under the presidency of Paul Claudel, French ambassador in Washington, and will speak throughout the entire program. The entire cast will appear in a gorgeous array of costumes.

The musical score has been built from the works of Chopin, Grieg, Debussy, Brahms, Gruber, Offenbach, Tchaikovsky, etc.

Robert Jester Harbour, the dance, Mrs. Pierpont Spiker, pianist, will accompany the program.

It is May day. We are the children of the middle of the nineteenth century.

The death rate is still high, but not nearly so high as it used to be. For this time little was understood of child hygiene, and the wars and pestilences had fostered indifference and the children suffered terribly.

But now things are better. Doctors are beginning to specialize in our bodies and to help us to live longer.

Societies for the prevention of cruelty to children have been formed; activities for our welfare are taken up by religious societies. Laws have been passed to make the labor of those of us under 12 who have to labor, to ten hours a day. A children's hospital has been established.

May day means a lot to us. We have oceans of fun. We have play, May poles, and pageants.

It is May day. We are the children of the present.

It is understood now that if we are sound-physically, mentally and spiritually, we are as rocks upon which the nation and the race are to be built, and if neglected we are as shifting sand.

It is understood that our contacts and experiences have not fitted us to reason and to act as adults, and demands are made upon us only proportionate to the special state of our physical and sympathetic understanding. Laws have been passed to prevent our having to labor at all.

The principles of child psychology itself are being studied for our benefit.

Major Raggade inaugurated the custom of keeping ponies at the parks last year. The steeds were sold by the city at the end of the park season to save winter feed bills.

It is known that to know, love and serve us is the most satisfying and soul-filling of all human activities.

It is May day. It is still our festival day; we have May poles, plays and pageants.

But May day now means much more than the fun and happiness for one day, for on this day throughout the nation special thought is being given on how we can best be served.

Our Kingdom is come. His will is being done on earth, as it is in heaven.

SHETLAND PONIES TO BE PURCHASED FOR CITY PARKS

THE GUMPS—FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS

Three Generations

By WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS. Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourne, is serving as a waiter in an Atlanta restaurant when he has been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance, has never seen his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents.

INSTALLMENT XV.
AN INVITATION.

A smile passed between Lance and his grandfather. They stood side by side watching the kettle, and waiting for its voice to be raised.

"I say—ought I to have put some hot water in the teapot?"

"Never mind today."

"Signs of omission! Tell me, grandfather; that was true?"

"What?"

"That you haven't had a holiday for years?"

"What is a holiday?"

"Then you haven't."

"I have not removed my body to some place by the sea-side or into Wales or the lake district. But the other part of me has traveled."

"Have you ever been to Cambridge, grandfather?"

"No."

Lance's face was very serious.

"I'm going up again next Tuesday. My last year. Would you come up for a few days this term, and stay with me? I can get you a room outside, and you could feed with me."

Old Pybus looked hard at him and was silent.

"I'd love you to come up, grandfather. I want you to meet two or three fellows, Sorrell and Frensham. And we should be able to talk. I shouldn't have to rush off."

Hanging filled the teapot, he glanced at his grandfather, who was holding the lid of it.

"Will you?"

"My son," said old Pybus, "I will. I make one condition, Lance."

"Yes, grandfather."

"I pay. Do you understand me?"

"But you will be my guest."

"Not exactly yours. God forgive both our prides."

Lance looked at his grandfather with a flushed seriousness.

"Yes—I understand—I'm sorry—Of course—"

"There's no need for you to be sorry," said old Pybus with a blue flash of the eyes. "The 'boots' of the Saracen's Head visits his grandson at Trinity. I take off my hat to my grandson, and I take off my hat to myself."

Lance helped himself to strawberry jam. If the moment was rich in emotion, it had other inferences, and little jarrings of the memory. Was the mood of the moment ever of one texture, simple and continuous, like a red or yellow jelly? You saw people like figures in a landscape. The very "I" of yourself was a complex of seeming contradictions. The Venerable walking round the great court at Trinity would seem a part of the mysterious reality of things. Where—as his father!—Lance had heard men say, "Awful more but the governor's coming up for the weekend," though some of them were not ashamed of their fathers, and may have felt for them a tolerant affection. What was snobbery? If your father made the intimate inward self of you wince, was that snobbery? And yet how queer it was that he should be conscious of pride at the thought of walking about Cambridge with his grandfather, a little old fellow in a bowler hat. Was it affection, or a mere flush of egotism, or defiance? Was there not some deep and rather sacred bond between them?—But how ironical! The Venerable had been the despised and the rejected of his sons, and the son of one of the sons was reversing the process, not as a prig, but rather as a disciple.

With his elbows on the table, and his eyes fixed on his grandfather's plate, Lance made his confession.

"The pater has been rather decent. I told him—He has offered me two years."

"An allowance?"

"Two hundred a year for two years

"when I go down. I'm wondering whether I ought to take it."

"You have taken—it—for 20 years."

"I know. But this is different. I'm self-conscious—"

"More tea, Lance?"

"Yes, another cup. I want you to tell me something, grandfather."

"Well?"

"Did you ever feel—an enemy—in your own father?"

"Yes—and no. We clashed—sometimes. What else can you expect?

Two live personalities. Just as Probyn and Conrad clashed with me. But my father had a sense of justice. In those days you'd call him a sportsman."

"But you had a sense of justice?"
Generations differ in their ideas of justice. What's to happen at the end of these two years?"

Lance took the cup from his grandfather's outstretched hand. He looked at the cup and not at the Venerable's face, but he seemed to be aware of the Venerable's eyes looking at him and into him. His grandfather had asked the one inevitable and pregnant question, just as Lance had realized that he might be expected to ask it.

"It wants to see me fail. It's letting me make a fool of myself. He's quite kind about it—but I'm to be the silly prodigal back from the husks. I shall go like a sheep into the shearing pen."

They looked at each other.

"Did that come to you?"

"Yes, how—I don't know. Like catching some one grinning in a mirror—when you are not supposed to be looking. It's damnable—to feel—"

His grandfather got up and reached for his tobacco tin.

"Prove people wrong. That's the only way. Remove that grin. It comes off like a mask—when they see you yourself—not the little manufactured self they'd like to make you. That's the only alternative—that—or slavery—soul slavery. It may be a bloody business—like the war, but it's worth it."

When they walked up to the Saracen's Head Lance had a hand tucked under his grandfather's arm.

"I shan't see you again till Cambridge. You—will come?"

"O, yes—I shall come." "I'll write and let you know. Oh, perhaps you would like to fix it at the end of the month?"

"You haven't told them yet?"

Just before getting into the car he remembered something. He drew a long envelope from an inner breast pocket.

"I want you to read some of my stuff, grandfather, will you?"

"What's that? Manuscript?" "A bit of poetry. You may think it a bit intimate."

"I'll read it."

"I want you to tell me—no humbug. Of course—I think it rather good—but I dare say that in five years I shall think it trash."

"No humbug."

The Venerable had lit his lamp, and tilted the green lamp shade so that the light shone over his left shoulder. He also had a small lamp which he folded down the middle, lay on the oak table. It had been lying there untouched for quite a quarter of an hour, while old Pybus sat very straight in his Windsor chair, and pulled hard at the pipe. Twice he had put out a hand to pick up those sheets of paper, and each time his courage had failed him.

Because, if the boy wrote rubbish, or expressed himself with a conventional and uninspired facility. If he expected praise—well—if he were to resent criticism? Because it is human to resent criticism, and youth flares quickly, or looks sullen and hurt when challenged. No humbug! Yes, that was all very well. But in asking for a sword, and a courage that does not flinch. We ask them to stand up and wound, and in wounding—to be wounded. Just how candid can a friend be, and is candor a poison or a panacea?

months made new high ground for the month. May selling up to 22.08 and October to 21.78, or 48 to 49 points net higher.

At this new price May showed an advance of more than 5 cents a pound compared with the low level touched on the break early last February while October showed a recovery of 48 points from the low price last winter.

Renewal of Realizing.

Evenly figures indicated renewal of realization, which was evident in a little more in evidence during the afternoon when a disposition to even up scattering account may have been prompted by uncertainty as to the probable stability of the market while the foreign exchange position was not so strong as expected tomorrow.

May sold off to 21.72 and October to 21.43, but the close was nevertheless up from the lowest on renewed buying and covering.

Private buyers buying continental, London, buying continental, with a scarcity of contracts, but that the turnover in cotton cloths and yarns was unimportant.

Exports today 37,947 bales, making 6,464,352 for this season. Port stocks 2,085,000 United States port stocks 1,468,345.

WIDE FLUCTUATIONS

FEATURE MARKET.

New Orleans, May 1.—(P)—Wide fluctuations and sharp reactions characterized today's cotton market with the general price trend upward.

Cables in full response to yesterday's price decline and the arrival and expectation of a bullish weather and crop summary proved the main sustaining influences. Reactions were brought on by a tendency to realize and fears that a boll weevil report, expected tomorrow, will be heavier.

The general market closed steady at net gains of 10 to 17 points.

First trades showed gains of from 13 to 15 points, principally on strength derived from Liverpool cotton, then down to 11 to 13 points better for the day. The action continued during the morning hours on good speculative and trade buying, July reaching 21.55 and October and December 21.29, 32 to 34 points pp from the previous close.

Speculative weather news induced some selling at these figures and by the time offerings were absorbed July had dipped to 21.26 and October and December to 21.23, 26 to 29 points down from the early highs. At mid-session fears of a boll weevil weekly cotton report and more buying in the belt caused some market movement, with reiterated reports concerning damage to crop prospects as a result of recent unfavorable weather. Prices for all Prices Turn Easier.

This eased prices after the initial demand had been supplied and the market lost 15 to 20 points of the advance.

The decline attracted a renewal of the buying movement around the 21.1-2 cent level for July and the market firmed up again during mid-session, fed by reports that the boll weevil report and more buying in the belt caused some market movement and buying which sent prices up 43 to 45 points, new high for the day and movement.

Utilities on Curb ATTRACT SUPPORT

HEAVY SELLING TUMBLERS WHEAT

Chicago, May 1.—(P)—Buying support swung from oils to utilities and industrials in the curb market today after the call money rate had been reduced to 1.2-1.2 per cent and a session which had opened with hesitate trading became one of the most active in market history. Total sales of stocks approximated 1,282,900 shares, second only to the record April 13, while $6,286,000 worth of bonds, the third largest total, changed hands.

Motors, some chain store, and electrical groups, including the electrical group, Auburn Auto, Brockway Motor Truck, Hennery Motor, Warner Gear and Firestone Tire and Seiberling Rubber especially were strong.

Selanese in Demand.

There is a heavy demand for British cotton but the price change was small. American artificial silk shares were rather inactive, although tubize gained 8 points net. Figgys Wiggys, advancing to a new top at 32.35 and Sanitary Grocers with a net gain of 13 points were outstanding among the chain stores. Wabash Standard and Wesson Oil and Snowdrift showed gains on buying apparently inspired by increasing cotton prices.

New Jersey Zinc saw a slight change in the market, up 12 points, while some other recent leaders as Bancit and Columbia Graphophone were held to small gains. Shubert Dunn moved to a new peak at 24.34 on a turnover of 50,000 shares.

Utilities are Strong.

The utility group, as a group, with gains of 1 to 10 points recorded by Electric Bond & Share, Electric Investors, American & Foreign Power, United Gas Improvement and others.

A few oil and pipe lines related profit-taking, but Darby Petroleum, Gulf, Humble, International Petroleum and Heiter Foster closed lower.

Vacuum, selling an dividend, gained more than 2 points on a large turn-over and Standard of Ohio and Lion reached new tops. Penn Mex Oil, after touching its previous high at $4, was pounded down 10 points.

Abandoned Acreage.

Abandoned acreage of winter wheat, according to the average of today's sales, will be 12,448,000 acres, leaving 35,782,000 acres for harvest. The condition is 70, the lowest on record with three exceptions. This exhibit, together with news of short stocks prevailing in Nebraska and elsewhere, today's market futures, and the resulting further damage to the market, led to buying on the breaks in price. At one time most of the day's loss was wiped out, but selling again broadened out and prices were crumbling fast as the day drew to an end.

Corn has been traded heavy in the late trade owing to wheat weakness. Earlier corn has risen to a very high price record for the season and there had been considerable buying of corn against sales of wheat.

Provisions were irregular, with strength in some offsetting to a large extent the influence of declines in the grain market as well as in hog values.

Cash Grain.

St. Louis, May 1.—Wheat: No. 2 red corn, 1.70; No. 2 white, 1.61; No. 2 yellow, 1.61; No. 2 white, 61¢/66¢; No. 1 white, 1.54; No. 1 white, 51¢/56¢.

Closes: Wheat, hard 1.60¢; July 1.60; Aug. 1.54; Sept. 1.44; Oct. 1.34; Nov. 1.24; Dec. 1.14; Jan. 1.04.

No changes occurred in refined with new buying still light. Refiner's quotations were as follows: Corn, 1.50; Oats, 1.20; Wheat, 1.60.

Wheat was still around at 10 points below these quotations.

The Day in Finance

BY
R. L. BARNUM

New York, May 1.—A renewal rate of 6 per cent for call money were also reported by other automobile manufacturers. Edsel Ford reports that production of the new model is now running at the daily rate of 2,300 with the schedule to be gradually increased until 5,000 are reached in July. He said over 100,000 new cars have been made and that the total of 5,000 orders now on hand amount to between $300,000 and 900,000.

Reading second preferred was the feature of the railroad list, advancing from 100 cents to 101 cents, and may be converted into half common and half first preferred at any time the management so desires. Rumors that the second preferred is to be retired accompanied today's heavy trading in the stock.

The New York Stock Exchange monthly brokers' loan statement is due Thursday, showing a balance of around $5,000,000,000. This with the favorable report of the senate committee on banking and currency on the proposed La Follette brokers' loan resolution also slowed down trading in the stock market.

Bank Report Is Factor.

Another factor in today's stock market was the weekly report of 644 member banks showing an increase of $35,000,000 in loans on stocks and bonds compared with the previous week, a decline of $3,000,000 in commercial paper and a advance of $75,000,000 in the borrowings of member banks from the federal reserve banks. Such changes point to advance in therediscount rate of the federal reserve bank here.

According to Washington, advice of all the objectionable features of the proposed La Follette resolution on brokers' loans were removed before the committee on banking and currency made a favorable report. The original resolution called for a ten percent tax on brokers' loans to take effect immediately to take them at once to get brokers' loans down and keep them down. In its revised form the resolution merely expresses the belief of the senate that the federal reserve board should, among the other measures available, limit further expansion of brokers' loans for speculative purposes, and require contraction as rapidly as compatible with financial stability of the nation.

According to Washington information, the feeling of the senate was strongly against the La Follette action, and the matter of brokers' loans which might upset the stock market and hurt widespread small holders of securities.

New Split Rumored.

General Motors' stock is if it were beginning to discount an extra dividend to be declared by the directors at the meetings scheduled for May 10. Some talk was also heard today of another split up in the distant future. In connection with the recent breaking of earnings and extra dividends in General Motors since the last split up has again climbed in the class of rich men's stocks. It is no secret in Wall street that the management of General Motors fully appreciates the advertising advantages of wide ownership of the stock. Well informed Wall street believes that not a small part of the sensational increases in sales by General Motors has been due to General Motors' widely advertised stock market leadership.

Chevrolet production for the first four months of this year is estimated at 474,000, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of 100,000. Large increases in April production rates of Six Per Cent for Call Money Slows Down Stock Market—Tone Continues Strong. However—Other Factors Noticeable.

RADIO-ING² The Air Waves!

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

"The Burgomaster," a musical comedy of old and new New York, from the time of the Dutch settlers to the present day, will be presented at 7 o'clock tonight, the first of the Wednesday night Philco hours of light and comic opera. The feature will come over Blue network stations.

Jessica Dragonette will star as Daisy in the operetta and Colin O'More will play Peter Stuyvesant. These operettas have been coming on Saturday nights. With the coming of daylight saving time we are having to adjust ourselves to days as well as hours in some cases, as changes are coming fast.

We were recently listened while the Eveready orchestra played the "Ride of the Valkyries" Tuesday night? And if any of those who heard it failed to enjoy it? The Dial Twister thought it was well done and as pleasing as any orchestral number heard in music.

The Ipana Troubadours will appear at 7 o'clock tonight over WSB and other network stations in a flower program. There will be "bouquets" and "wild flowers" and "daisies" and all the others. Among the numbers will be "When You Were a Tulip," "Lily of the Valley," "La Vie en Rose" and many others. Flowers will be the theme of every number. The program promises some excellent music.

A variety hour will be offered by the Goodrich Silvertones Cord orchestra when it arrives at 7:30 o'clock tonight over WSB and other network stations. We will have, among others, "Rolling Down the Road," "Temple Bells," "It's a Long Way to Singapore" and "Sumatra." But all the selections do not take the color of the Orient regardless of the names we have named above.

Then should you want to drop over to St. Louis to KOMX, or to WAIU, the KOMX Council Bluffs, Iowa, station KOIL, make for it and listen on some Columbia system programs. We will have with us tonight:

At 7 o'clock, The Captivators— with vocal and instrumental soloists featuring the program.

At 8 o'clock, the Celebrity hour, with Colbie Smith, hostess, and making merry in person in front of WOR's mike in New York. This program is almost always a musical knockout. Tonight it promises real surprises, with soloists as well as the Columbia Symphony orchestra.

FIGHT-FISTED BILLY!

The pup of it is that he COULD take about half of what he is spending in purchases and drive by my place and yell: "Say, Cottongim, this thing up and slip some of those COLUMBUS or FIRESTONE tires to me so I can ride in peace for a little while." Course I'd do it, and he could make the payments on a scale that would suit his pocketbook. But he ain't the only "fight-fisted Billy." I know a guy that's been cranking his car since last February just 'cause he's too "thick" to come by and get a CHESTERFIELD battery for a few cents down and a few cents every once in a while.

Yes sir, TERMS is my business. Come get 'em. Yours for easy terms.
